Carl Capolingua - Head of Education

Bachelor of Economics, / Grad Dip Financial Planning (ASIA)

Carl studied economics at the University of Western Australia, and went on to complete a Graduate Diploma in Financial Planning from the Securities Institute of Australia, arguably Australia's most respected industry educational body.

Carl has over 12 years experience in professional trading and research, and has extensively traded practically every type of security on the stock and futures markets. His expertise in both fundamental and technical analysis gives Australian Stock Report the edge in identifying the most profitable investment opportunities for members.

Apart from his expertise in trading ASX listed shares, Carl is one of the most widely read ASX 200 Futures or Share Price Index (SPI) writers in the country. He's had numerous articles published in trading publications, and is quoted regularly in various media publications. Carl tours the country presenting educational workshops to literally thousands of investors. Having worked around both novice and professional traders, Carl is well equipped to cater to the varying needs of each group, and capable of understanding what they want out of our investment products.

Mandi Pour Rafsendjani - Master NLP

Mandi's own experience as a share trader highlighted to her that sometimes all the knowledge in the world is not enough to create success. In her work she has identified what it is that causes people to fail in their venture of becoming a profitable share trader and to self-sabotage their efforts rather than propelling forward. Mandi is a professional CFD trader, educator and internationally renowned trader coach specializing in share trading psychology with clients reaching as far as Germany, Dubai, UK and USA. She is a regular speaker in presenting the art of trading psychology. She has spoken in front of organizations like the Australian Technical Analysis Association, Bourse Data and is a regular guest speaker on seminars. Having worked and trained with the best, like Anthony Robbins and Christopher Howard, Mandi is constantly refining her masterful skills and is today a fully accredited Life Coach and Master NLP (Neuro Linguistic Programming) Trainer specializing in her passion: Share Trading Psychology.

Mandi has an amazing ability to show her clients how to reach levels they never thought possible.
